

WINDOWS ON THE PAST, BRINGING HIGH STREETS AND HISTORY TO LIFE

The Vikings made use of locally sourced, natural materials for a wide variety of purposes. Our themed display invites the public to discover the Vikings' relationship with the environment and to compare and contrast the attitudes of the time with today's society.

The display brings the theme to life and can include replica items, scenic elements and archaeological finds. QR codes provide access to a wealth of digital material, allowing the display's themes to be explored in more detail. People can find out more about the relationship with the natural world in this period through reconstructions and videos, including 3D scans of Viking-age artefacts.

This pop-up installation is part of our 'Windows on the Past' portfolio, an initiative from the JORVIK Group, who own and operate the world famous JORVIK Viking Centre in York. Available to hire by towns and cities looking to bring a fresh lease of life to their high street, shopping centre, or other under-utilised venue, the installations provide a vibrant, interactive and informative enhancement to any urban setting.

SIZE AND CONTENT

Our displays are flexible and will be adapted to your space. The exact content is reviewed on a venue-by-venue basis and certain environmental, security and display criteria will apply.

Physical content can include:

- Replica items, such as Viking tools and everyday items.
- Themed set-dressing, such as a Viking boat or market stalls.
- A selection of archaeological finds.

Digital content can include:

- 3D scans of Viking-age artefacts found during the Coppergate excavation in York.
- Short films illustrating how we can use experimental archaeology to investigate the processes involved in Viking craftsmanship.
- Video presentations introducing the attitudes towards the natural world in the Viking period.
